Faust in the Anthropocene

Faust in the Anthropocene - Epic Story, Original Music, Large Cast Comes to Portland Stage Studio Theater

A workshop performance of the new play by Al D'Andrea, Faust in the Anthropocene, will perform Saturday July 27 (7 pm) and Sunday July 28 (3 pm) at Portland Stage Studio Theater in Portland.

This groundbreaking and startlingly original new work features Wisdom Tales from the Land of Snows woven together with familiar characters from both the Faust legend and our own troubled times. Original music by Aaron Robinson will be heard throughout the show, including the new rock anthem Kali Yuga (Dark Age).

Billionaire Faust grapples with his perpetual dissatisfaction until the seductive Mara offers him unlimited power - for a price. But Faust meets his greatest challenge in the character of Zee, an eco-activist bent on upending his world while trying to save hers. Featuring characters such as the playful sage Shabkar, the obsequious Tenders of the Government, the embodiments of Lust, Craving, Rage and Ego, and even Helen and Paris (members of the band A Thousand Ships), Faust in the Anthropocene explores mankind's contemporary crises and offers a vision of hope for those daring to look within.

The cast includes Portland area theater veterans and newcomers alike: Kevin O'Leary plays the tortured Faust while Karen Ball is the sinuous Mara. Sean Ramey portrays Shabkar and Makenzie Sands appears as Zee. The rest of the cast in multiple and diverse roles includes Harlan Baker, Carole Florman, Blake Wright, Jessica Dunton Fidalgo, Logan Merrithew, Julia Badaraco, Jesse Reich, Alyssa Pearl-Ross, Joe Quinn, Margit Ahlin, Randall Tuttle, and Tristan Rolfe.

This workshop is FREE (donations gladly accepted) and seats are limited. Reservations can be made by calling 207.315.6612 or emailing us at info@snowlionrep.org.

Or just come to the theater - we can't wait to share this exciting theatrical debut with you!
