HOW WILL YOU COMMEMORATE EARTH DAY THIS YEAR?

Faust in the Anthropocene* opens April 4th!

IT IS NO ACCIDENT that the world premiere of FAUST IN THE ANTHROPOCENE ushers in Earth Day commemorations in mid-April 2025. This groundbreaking and startlingly original play features Wisdom Tales from the Land of Snows woven together with familiar characters from the Faust legend, telling a story of a world gone mad while offering a glimpse of how to find peace, sanity, and a way to support Mother Earth.

MARA (Kim Gordon) offers FAUST (James Noel Hoban) unimaginable power, fame, and wealth - for a price

The show traces the efforts of eco-activist ZEE and her compatriots to bring awareness and resistance to the earth-damaging behavior of billionaire FAUST, who has made a bargain with the embodiment of his ego, MARA, for limitless power. ZEE must find a way to reach FAUST and stop his destructive activities. The cast of 14 portrays over 60 characters and the show features original music by Aaron Robinson, including the rock banger Kali Yuga (Dark Age).

FAUST (James Noel Hoban) thwarts every move of his nemesis, eco-activist

FAUST IN THE ANTHROPOCENE is written and directed by Al D'Andrea and will debut at The Hill Arts (formerly St. Lawrence Arts) on Munjoy Hill in Portland, opening April 4, 2025 and running through April 13.

FAUST (James Noel Hoban) surveys all that is promised in a bargain for his soul made with MARA (Kim Gordon)
